

PhreakNIC 10

Wow, we sold out of picks within about 10 minutes after the HackerPimps lockpicking presentation finished on Saturday. I appoligize to all the con attendees that we had to turn away. We setup the lock stands Friday night as soon as we arrived, the table obtained critical mass very quickly and remained 100% occupied until nearly 3am. People that brought picks with them passed on knowledge and technique to others without any of us being there. Pictured is one of the slowest moments for our locks on Saturday: