

No-Notice Meeting

We're going to have a zero notice meeting tomorrow, basically to get ready for DEFCON and get a few things straightened out. The FOOLS shirts have been printed and will be ready to pick up on Friday. Hopefully we will have some new images up the same day or Saturday. I have a second design that I am working on, hopefully my ability to draw some hands will cease to suck. Also, I've played with some CAD stuff on the new pick designs, and I think they will work out well. That is going to take a month or so to get finalized, but when it does the product should be something really special.